Notable Cases involving the U.S. Supreme Court

Graham v. Florida, 560 U.S. 48 (2010). Mr. Gowdy was counsel of record for Terrence Graham, a juvenile defendant. The Court, in a 5-4 opinion, categorically applied the Eighth Amendment for the first time in a non-capital case and ruled that life-without-parole sentences were unconstitutional for juvenile offenders who have not committed a homicide. The Court's decision invalidated the sentencing laws of 37 states, the federal government, and the District of Columbia. Mr. Gowdy orally argued the case.

Gallardo v. Marstiller, 596 U.S. 420 (2022). Mr. Gowdy was counsel of record for a Medicaid beneficiary who argued that federal law precluded a state Medicaid agency from taking the portion of her tort recovery compensating her for future medical expenses to reimburse the agency for past medical expenses. Mr. Gowdy's argument was supported by the United States. The Court, in a 7-2 decision, decided that federal law allowed the state agency to take such funds. Mr. Gowdy orally argued the case.

Montgomery v. Caribe Transport II, LLC, 146 S. Ct. 79 (2025). Mr. Gowdy was counsel of record on a petition for certiorari granted by the Court. Mr. Montgomery was injured when he was hit by a truck. He sued the truck driver, the motor carrier that employed the driver, and the broker that arranged the shipment. The petition argued that the Court should decide whether the Federal Aviation Administration Authorization Act preempted a state common-law claim against a broker for negligently selecting a motor carrier or driver. Mr.

Paul Clement was substituted for Mr. Gowdy as counsel of record at the merits stage, and the Court later ruled 9-0 in favor of the petitioner. 608 U.S. 219 (2026).

Havana Docks Corp. v. Royal Caribbean Cruises, Ltd., 608 U.S. 235 (2026). Mr. Gowdy was counsel of record for a bipartisan group of congressional Members who submitted two amicus briefs—one at the petition stage and one at the merits stage—in support of an American corporation whose Cuban property was confiscated by the Castro regime. The American corporation sued several cruise lines, alleging unlawful trafficking under the Helms-Burton Act. The Members' amicus briefs explained why the private cause of action established by the Act was a central pillar of the United States' foreign policy on Cuba.

Navarro v. United States Center for SafeSport, No. 26-559 (docketed Oct. 28, 2026). Mr. Gowdy—as counsel of record for three equestrians—has petitioned the U.S. Supreme Court to grant certiorari to decide whether Congress unconstitutionally delegated legislative and other government powers to a private corporation—SafeSport—when in 2018 it amended the Ted Stevens Olympic and Amateur Sports Act. The petition invokes the private nondelegation doctrine, on which the Court last relied in 1936 to declare a congressional act unconstitutional.

Charles v. S. Baptist Hosp. of Fla., Inc., 209 So. 3d 1199 (Fla. 2017), pet. for cert. denied, 583 U.S. 905 (2017). Mr. Gowdy represented a patient who exercised her right under a state constitutional amendment, commonly known as Amendment 7, to request access to a hospital's adverse incident reports. The Supreme Court of Florida reversed a lower appellate court's holding that Amendment 7 was preempted by the federal Patient Safety Quality Improvement Act. Mr. Gowdy, as counsel of record, successfully responded in opposition to a petition for certiorari to the U.S. Supreme Court. No. 16-1446.

Hernandez v. Crespo, 211 So. 3d 19 (Fla. 2016), pet. for cert. denied, 583 U.S. 824 (2017). Mr. Gowdy represented a patient who alleged medical malpractice. The issue was whether the arbitration agreement between the patient and her medical provider was void as against public policy because it excluded required provisions of Florida's Medical Malpractice Act. The Florida Supreme Court ruled, 5-2, the agreement was void. Mr. Gowdy, as counsel of record, successfully responded in opposition to a petition for certiorari to the U.S. Supreme Court in this case and a related case. Nos. 16-1458, 17-365.

Doe v. Rollins College, No. 23-509. Mr. Gowdy was counsel of record for a college that opposed a petition for certiorari. The Court called for the college to respond to the petition. The petition asked the Court to address sexual discrimination claims under Title IX of the Education Amendments Act of 1972. The Court denied the petition.

Doe v. Sterling, No. 21-1543. Mr. Gowdy was counsel of record for a civil defamation plaintiff who opposed a petition for certiorari. The U.S. Supreme Court called for the plaintiff to respond to the petition. Invoking the First Amendment, the petition asked the Court to decide the proper standard of review to be applied in determining whether a party may obtain a subpoena compelling the identification of an anonymous speaker on the service provider's online platform. The Court denied the petition.
